

Consumer and Small Business Recycling Program in US

Lenovo has partnered with Eco-International, a leader in environmentally sound recycling and PC value recovery, to offer Eco Take Back for Lenovo customers. Eco Take Back's recycling service is intended for consumers and small businesses in the United States who want to dispose of their end of life computer systems and accessories in an environmentally responsible manner while reducing the use of diminishing landfill space. Lenovo's offering provides a FREE recycling solution for any Lenovo product and select IBM products, including system units, monitors, keyboards, and mice. Equipment from other manufacturers may be recycled as well depending on the age and condition of the equipment being returned. Step through the instructions on the Eco Take Back webpage to see if your equipment qualifies. As part of this service, Lenovo will arrange for free shipping of any Lenovo PC and select IBM PCs via UPS to Eco-International. Eco-International will recycle as much of the computer system and accessories as possible and will dispose of the remainder in an environmentally sound manner. For large enterprise customers, Lenovo's Asset Recovery Service provides solutions for larger quantities of equipment from any manufacturer, including Lenovo.

Lenovo and its recycling partners are not responsible for information left on equipment returned to Lenovo or its partners for recycling. Lenovo recommends consumers use Lenovo's Secure Data Disposal tool or one of the variety of commercially available data-erasing software applications available on the market and follow the instructions associated with the software to ensure data is removed from the machine prior to returning for recycling.
